Medi-Pak™ Performance Hydrocolloid Dressings

Hydrocolloid dressings are designed for the management of partial and full thickness wounds such as leg ulcers and pressure ulcers. Hydrocolloid dressings help maintain a moist wound-healing environment, protect the wound from external contamination and promote autolytic debridement.

Hydrocolloid dressings should not be used on patients with third-degree burns or known sensitivities to the components of the dressings.

Hydrocolloids can be used to help protect skin at risk for breakdown from damage due to friction.

Hydrocolloid dressings are designed to manage light to moderate wound exudate and provide a moist wound-healing environment for the wound bed. Conditions that lead to the formation of the wound (pressure, incontinence, friction and shearing forces) must be considered and addressed as part of the total wound care treatment plan.

Foam Back Dressing

Since patient comfort is key, hydrocolloids with foam backings are possibly the most popular type available, as the foam provides an added layer of comfort. The edge of our version is tapered to prevent bunching and rolling up, therefore maximizing wear time and increasing cost-effectiveness.

Film Back Dressing

This dressing represents the latest in hydrocolloid technology. The film backing is designed to act as a barrier to external contaminants, and it is translucent, which enables clinicians to monitor the wound between dressing changes. The edge is also tapered, which reduces the risk of bunching and rolling up, maximizing wear time and increasing cost-effectiveness.

Sacral Dressing

Sacral wounds are some of the most difficult wounds to manage, as anatomical curves in combination with varying levels of exudate create great challenges. This sacral dressing is designed to meet these challenges, and is made with the same design components of our film back hydrocolloid dressing.

Thin Dressing

This very thin dressing enhances a clinician's ability to monitor the wound without having to remove the dressing. It is very conformable and can be used to help protect against damage due to friction.

Medi-Pak™ Performance

Island and Barrier Island Dressings

Island and barrier island dressings may be used as a primary or secondary dressing. The island dressing is a bordered gauze dressing consisting of an absorbent, non-adherent pad covered by a breathable adhesive border. The barrier island dressing is a composite dressing appropriate for wounds with light to moderate exudate when a semi-occlusive environment is desired to protect from contamination.

Island Dressing

When a gauze dressing with adhesive border is required, the island dressing offers the convenience of an all-in-one dressing. An absorbent non-adherent central pad is surrounded by a breathable adhesive border, then covered with a layer of soft, highly conformable gauze. The non-adherent pad in the center is designed to avoid disrupting the wound bed upon removal.

Barrier Island Dressing

Our barrier island dressing offers the convenience of an all-in-one dressing by combining an absorbent non-adherent central pad, with film backing. This film is designed to provide an additional barrier to external contaminants, making this dressing appropriate for patients suffering from incontinence and those who are able to bathe or shower.
