

Conforming Stretch Gauze Bandages

McKesson Conforming Stretch Gauze Bandages are designed as a secondary dressing to help secure placement of primary dressings. They are made of a stretchable, soft cushioning which enables them to provide light compression while conforming to most of the body's natural contours. Ideal as a secondary dressing, they allow for movement while accommodating any increase or decrease in swelling. Their high absorbency helps ensure patient comfort during the healing process. McKesson Conforming Stretch Gauze Bandages feature non-frayed finished edges to avoid fraying and linting. They are available in different lengths and widths for caregiver convenience.

Features and Benefits

- Breathable rayon and polyester blend to help provide added comfort, reduced slippage and shape retention
- Self-adhesive to minimize need for tape
- Available in sterile or non-sterile
- Not made with natural rubber latex
